

Hosted Desktop Solutions

A hosted desktop can centralise your business and it's applications allowing people to work from anywhere in the world...

- Fully customisable and scalable solutions to meet your needs
- Secure, remote access from any location for any service
- Backup and failover put in place to ensure you have access to all your data all the time

We work with you and your organisation to determine the specific hosted virtual desktop environment specifications to meet your needs. We understand that each department within your organisation is different; we can support your needs for different applications being accessible and available at any time.

A hosted desktop can centralise your business and it's applications allowing people to work from anywhere in the world, as long as they have an internet connection, as if they were sat next to you in the office.

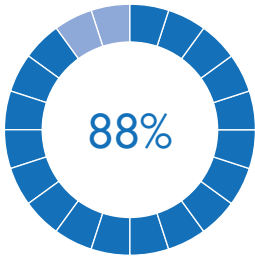

Benefits to your business

Our hosted virtual desktops work just like your normal office PC or laptop. All of your data and applications are migrated into the cloud (on our powerful UK servers) and you'll access these through the same desktop interface you would use in your office location. The difference is you'll get all of the added benefits of the hosted desktop solution, like remote working.

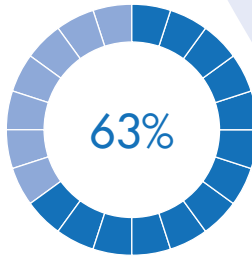

You'll be able to access your desktop from anywhere, any time and on any device. Employees can access company files on a shared drive; you can also access all of the latest Microsoft Office applications and any company apps you choose to move into the cloud.

We operate a security-first approach in our working practices; from internet connections to data privacy, an offsite backup system also keeps all data safe. High availability servers and storage mean you will never run out of space for those vital presentations and reports. Around the clock monitoring provides a constant network to give you all the peace of mind you need.

Research from the Cloud Industry Forum (CIF) reveals that the overall cloud adoption rate in the UK now stands at 88%.

Within the next year, 63% of respondents are expected to have adopted cloud for data backup/disaster recovery and customer contact centres (57%).

The top three reasons for initially adopting cloud services are flexibility of delivery (74%), operational cost savings (72%) and scalability (65%).
